

PROTECTION FROM GENDER-BASED VIOLENCE

CERF special allocations in 2020

As of July 2021

CERF strongly supports protection from gender-based violence. In 2020, CERF conducted two special allocations, under the Rapid Response and Underfunded Emergencies windows, to increase its support to GBV programming and achieve lasting changes.

RAPID RESPONSE ALLOCATIONS

In November 2020, on the International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women, the Emergency Relief Coordinator allocated $25 million from the Central Emergency Response Fund to UNFPA and UN Women. This extraordinary allocation was aimed at responding to increasing trends of gender-based violence (GBV) around the world, related to the COVID-19 situation. With this funding, the two agencies and their partners work to empower women and girls, and strengthen the capacities of local women's organizations to prevent, respond and mitigate the effects of GBV.

To achieve these objectives, the allocation is being implemented over two years, 2021-2022, across 11 countries affected by humanitarian emergencies, providing support to 770,000 affected people. An estimated 40% of the funding - $10 million - is allocated to women-led organizations and women's rights organizations. The two UN agencies and their partners also provide food security assistance, healthcare and multi-purpose cash grants.

The two agencies have worked closely together to agree on priority countries, common outcomes and indicators, and a joint evaluation at the end of the implementation period.

UNDERFUNDED EMERGENCIES ALLOCATIONS

In October 2020, as part of a $100 million allocation to the world's most underfunded emergencies, the ERC asked humanitarian country teams to specifically prioritize GBV programming.

Country teams allocated a total of $9.6 million for GBV programming, targeting a total of 463,000 affected people with activities responding to or mitigating the effects of gender-based violence. Some country teams, including Uganda and Nigeria, made GBV programming the focus of their CERF strategies.

In addition, country teams have prioritized health programmes that will also help prevent or mitigate GBV with $12.1 million allocated. In the Health sector, this includes sexual and reproductive health, clinical management of rape and menstrual hygiene management. Thus, a combined total of $21.7 million supports direct and indirect GBV outcomes.
